

FIRST PERSON SALONS
at the gershman Y

Experience Philadelphia's art revolution - live!
2nd Weds. of every month
March 12th: Special guest: Sonia Sanchez
401 S. Broad St. \ \ 7-9 pm \ \ $5-10
get in the art \ \ salons.firstpersonarts.org

First Person Arts is dedicated to presenting the most exciting developments in memoir and documentary art!

March 12th: First Person Salon at the Gershman Y

We are pleased to announce that composer Evan Solot will present a session with acclaimed poet Sonia Sanchez on a work-in-progress, translating Does Your House Have Lions? (Sanchez' memoir in the form of an epic poem) into a work for orchestra, rhythm section, and jazz and R&B singers. They will be joined by storyteller Ray Tackett who will share Summer Wind, the true story of one of his early experiments with aerodynamics and its unexpected results. And rounding out the program will be an exciting array of documentary filmmakers from First Person Arts' 2007 5-Day documentary competition who will premiere their 5-minute films—on the theme "Object of my affection"—accompanied by the subjects of those films.

Laura Deutch with subject Charles Tyson

--

bex* with subject Susan Dipronio

--

Jere Paolini with subject Terez Giuliana

--

Garrett Davis with subject Glenda Gracia

--